PRIMORIS SERVICES CORPORATION ANNOUNCES $34 MILLION IN CONTRACT AWARDS

Lake Forest, CA – January 14, 2010 -- Primoris Services Corporation (Nasdaq: PRIM; PRIMW; PRIMU) ("Primoris" or the "Company"), one of the largest specialty contractors and engineering companies in the United States, today announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, James Construction Group, LLC, has been awarded two construction services contracts at the John W. Turk, Jr., Unit 1 Power Plant in Fulton, Arkansas. Primoris expects that the two contracts will, in the aggregate, generate approximately $34 million in revenues over a 12-month period ending December 2010.

The first contract calls for site development and will be performed by James Construction Group's Infrastructure & Maintenance Division. The project's work scope includes large-scale excavation and embankment activities and installation of drainage culverts. Work is scheduled to begin this month and be complete by December 2010. The second contract entails railroad track expansion, highway realignment, and bridge construction. James Construction Group's Heavy Civil Division will install 4,000 feet of new railroad track, construct a 212-foot overpass concrete girder bridge that will realign State Highway 195 over the new tracks, and install new asphalt surfaces to realign and improve County Road 49. The project is slated to begin this month and has a scheduled completion of October 2010.

James Construction Group, LLC is one of the largest construction companies operating in the southern United States. Through its three divisions, the company performs a wide range of projects that include highways, bridges, airports, and marine construction; sitework and environmental services; and industrial plant construction and maintenance. James Construction Group is headquartered in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and has other Louisiana offices in Ruston and Lafayette, as well as locations in Belton, Texas, and Bartow, Florida.
